German journalists are recreating Huck Finn voyage

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

When Huckleberry Finn and his friend, Jim, floated the Mississippi River a century ago, Granite City was still about a decade away from being platted by German brothers, the Niedringhaus.

Now, 100 years after Mark Twain penned Huckleberry Finn, two Germans are again floating the Mississippi River and finding everything exciting, including Granite City.

THE TWO ARE journalists for Stern (translates into Star in English) magazine and are working on a cultural feature for the magazine, which sells about 1.6 million issues a week throughout Europe. Hans Conrad Zander, originally from Sweden, the writer, describes Stern as "the most important weekly in Germany."

Zander is accompanied by Cornelius Meffert, a German photographer who is one of Stern's chief contributors. Their main theme is recreating Huckleberry Finn's voyage in celebration of the 100th anniversary of the ageless book.

Both became impressed with Granite City as they floated by on a pontoon boat with a makeshift cabin and stopped to spend two days here and get a better look at the city.

"COMPARED to Europe, much of the Mississippi is an untouched paradise. It's just beautiful, even though it has lots of snakes," Zander said.

He noted that when their boat approached the Chain of Rocks Canal, the scenery changed to "an industrial landscape with its own charm. It's like the canals of central England, Birmingham and Manchester. It creates a type of landscape that has its own charm," Zander related.

Meffert added, "There are great pictures here. It has its own beauty."

ZANDER SAID a trend being set in Europe may find its way here, that of turning idle factories into luxury apartment buildings. "Old factories are the most expensive places to live. Apartments built into old factories are the most fashionable way to live and have the most prestigious addresses in Europe. A lot of old factories are suddenly being classified as protected," Zander said.

"Ten or 20 years ago in Europe, this would have been thought of as ugly. Now it's beautiful. Your trends come from Europe. I think this will, too," he predicted. "A European college professor going through Granite City would say, 'Marvelous,'" he added.

The two took great interest in the plating of Granite City by the German Niedringhaus brothers. Told that now, about 90 years after the city was platted, Granite City Steel is just beginning to outgrow the property designated for it by the original plat, Zander said. "Ah, one German plan that worked. Most of them don't."

AIR POLLUTION, a chief concern in this region, is not the problem here that it is in many industrialized parts of Germany, Zander said. Also, the Germans were surprised at the quality of the water in the Mississippi River, which most Americans consider muddy and polluted.

"This river is not polluted at all, according to European standards. In the big rivers in Europe, you cannot eat the fish. The water is too polluted."

"We stop and swim and fish and I have eaten the river fish here. It is excellent," Zander commented.

The journalists arrived in America nearly three weeks ago and spent most of their time in New York City reading about the Mississippi. Then they flew to St. Louis, drove to Granite City to purchase supplies for their trip and set out for Hannibal,

Local lawyers face misconduct charges

A misconduct complaint has been filed against six Madison County lawyers by the Attorney Registration and Disciplinary Commission of the Illinois State Supreme Court, it was disclosed Friday.

The complaint was made public after the St. Louis Post-Dispatch made a formal request with the Supreme Court for the information. According to that newspaper, the charges were filed with the commission's Hearing Board April 6 and the matter is pending.

LAWYERS NAMED are William S. Beatty, Jon G. Carlson, Morris B.

Chapman, William W. Schooley Jr. and Leon G. Scroggins, all of Granite City and L. Thomas Lakin of East Alton.

They allegedly used misleading information in 1980 in advertisements which urged defeat of the retention efforts of Circuit Judges Victor J. Mosele of Madison County and John DeLaurenti of Bond County.

At the time of the campaign, the judges alleged that newspaper and radio advertisements and direct mail letters put out by the six attorneys slanted the facts to make it

GC Steel is planning public tours of plant

Quad-City area residents who have always wanted to tour Granite City Steel, or who have not toured it in a decade, may do so this summer.

Tours will be offered each Tuesday through Thursday starting July 1 for persons 16-year-of-age and older who make arrangements at least a week in advance.

THE COMPANY has purchased a 12-passenger van and will drive visitors from building to building to see the 80-inch hot strip rolling mill, the continuous slab caster, the basic oxygen furnaces, the blast furnaces and coke ovens, the galvanizing line, the water treatment plant and other sites.

Morning tours will begin at 9 a.m. and afternoon tours will start at 4 p.m. Each tour will last two to three hours, according to J. Daniel Hines, director of public relations.

Areas to be visited will be selected according to what areas are operating each day. However, for families of GC Steel employees, every effort will be made to visit the area in which the employee works, if possible, Hines said.

HE APOLOGIZES for imposing the age limit of 16, but said that was a requirement of the insurance policy.

If requests for tours exceed the capacity of one van, additional vans will be added, he pledged. Retired Granite City Steel employees will conduct the tours and answer questions from the visitors.

Hines said plans are to continue the tours after the summer and throughout the year to vocational classes and other adult groups.

He stressed that tours must be arranged a week in advance and no walk-ins will be accepted on the tours.

Persons desiring to tour the mill may call the public relations department at 451-3948.

Three area youths receive county veterans scholarships

Three Madison County high school students are the winners of Children of Veterans County Scholarships. Regional Superintendent Harold Briggs' office announced that Connie Babor of Granite City High School and Timothy Brinkmann and Jay Corgiat both of Edwardsville High School were chosen from 10 applications submitted to Briggs last December.

The scholarships were awarded primarily on the basis of scores made on the ACT examinations, with preference given to children of deceased or disabled veterans. The scholarships provide a tuition waiver for four years at either campus of the University of Illinois. Babor received the World War II scholarship. Brinkmann received the Korean Conflict scholarship, and Corgiat was awarded the Vietnam Conflict scholarship. There were no entries among survivors of World War I veterans.

TIRES OF 3 VEHICLES CUT

A destructive vandal punctured the right front tires of 1981 and 1966 autos and both right tires of a 1976 pickup truck, all owned by Virgil Bellor, 2435 Illinois Ave., while they were parked there this month. Dogs in the neighborhood were noisy at about midnight.

LAWN MOWER MISSING

A 20-inch lawn mower was stolen from the yard of Shirley Ziegler, 406 Kirkpatrick Homes, she reported last week.

State squeezing schools too much, Davis testifies

A call for fewer state mandates and more state dollars for schools was voiced by S. J. Davis last week in Mount Vernon at a public hearing of the State Board of Education.

"I am superintendent of schools in Community Unit District 9 in Granite City. I represent a school district in extreme financial difficulty. I will list the facts that have led my district to its present plight," Davis related.

"In 1973-74 we enrolled 14,000 pupils, operated 22 buildings, and employed 1,121 individuals. We were 'in the black' and appeared to be financially stable. We began to project prolonged enrollment declines and, as a result, closed a junior high school.

"From 1973 until 1979 we began to reduce staff by not replacing retiring and resigning staff members.

"In 1977, our projections of financial difficulties, given first in 1974, began to become a reality. "It was necessary in the 1977-78 year to borrow money for cash flow purposes, and we projected that in future budget years we would borrow not just for cash flow problems but also for operating purposes.

"In answer to that projection we closed three elementary schools at the end of 1979 and dismissed 60 teachers, five custodians, eight cafeteria personnel and two secretaries.

"In 1980, because the building fund could no longer support a major maintenance program, we went to the public with a building bond issue. For the first time in the history of the district, a bond issue failed.

"In 1981-82, we completely revamped our cafeteria operations and reduced 34 cafeteria positions. At the same time, we reduced additional administration, teaching and custodial positions.

"Last year we closed an additional six schools, including a senior high. We dismissed 140 teachers, nine administrators, 23 custodians, 18 secretaries and five cafeteria workers.

"This year, 1983-84, we reduced our expenditures $4.5 million. We have frozen all wages. We have made further staff reductions for next year.

"We continue to lose pupils and project an enrollment next year of approximately 8,900 pupils."

Supt. Davis continued, "We will end this fiscal year June 30 with a debt of $8 million in spite of the drastic steps taken to keep expenses in line with revenue while still maintaining some semblance of a quality educational program.

"In summation, in the past 12 years we have:

—Lost 36 percent of our pupils.

—Reduced staff from 1,121 to 646 (or 43 percent).

—Closed 10 schools (46 percent).

—Experienced a loss of state revenue.

—Accumulated a debt of $8 million in the last seven years.

"I am not here to condemn or lay blame upon anyone. I simply have tried to give you an analysis of one school district's plight.

"Granite City has been crippled by the recent and prolonged recession. We have experienced an unemployment rate in the community of approximately 20 percent.

"Our surveys indicate a bleak prospect for passage of any tax increase presented to an electorate still reeling from its own economic battering.

"We need financial help. We need a reduction in mandates, and we do not need additional mandates that would require us to assume all or any part of additional costs.

"Our employees have not received a wage increase this year, and we do not project one next year.

"Our class sizes have gone from an average of 22 to over 30. Without a substantial influx of new monies, this trend will continue.

"I have appeared before numerous committees throughout these years and foretold what was happening and would happen without financial assistance. We are now there, and my predictions are now realities, much to my regret.

"I implore, once more, for someone to listen, to heed and to act," Supt. Davis concluded.

ALLEGED PUBLIC INDECENCY

Roy L. Adams, 28, of 2009 Grand Ave., pleaded innocent last week to a charge of public indecency in the vicinity of the Schnuck market. He posted $102 bail.

POSTAL SERVICE RETIREE. Granite City Postmaster Jack Wilkins, left, presents a service award to David Davis upon his retirement from the Postal Service. Davis, a resident of Granite City, has 26 years of government service to his credit. The former distribution clerk was absent less than five days during his postal service career and has accrued 2,400 hours of sick leave, which is equal to more than a year of work.

County seeks controls on special prosecutors

By JIM WOODCOCK

The Madison County Board finance committee says it has taken a step toward keeping better tabs on the cost of the county's various special prosecutors.

A resolution passed by the finance committee last week will require all special prosecutors to submit a monthly, itemized bill for services rendered.

THE FINANCE committee's resolution will go to the county board for ratification June 20.

In the past, special prosecutors have turned in a bill for their services once a grand jury investigation has been completed.

Finance committee members said that recently, however, it has been difficult to keep track of the numerous special prosecutors who have come and gone in the county.

In one recent grand jury investigation, Paul Verticchio acted as special prosecutor in a probe of State's Attorney Don Weber.

IN THE OTHER grand jury investigation, Springfield attorney Bruce Locher is currently leading the probe into assessment practices in the county.

Locher is the second special prosecutor in the assessments probe, replacing former state's attorney Keith Jensen. Locher took over after Jensen was removed from the role by a judge in May.

Also, Leonard Berg was appointed as a special prosecutor for cases Weber was prosecuting prior to the grand jury investigation into the state's attorney's office.

ASSISTANT State's Attorney Marshall "Zeke" Smith said Don Groshong and Ed Moorman, the two attorneys who represented Weber, are not considered special prosecutors and will probably be paid from the state's attorney's budget.

The county is ordered by the courts to pay special prosecutors for their services. An hourly rate is usually involved.

County board members received a letter from Smith last month that warned of the escalating cost to the county for the various special prosecutors.

THE COUNTY board has no control over this special prosecutor stuff," Smith said. "Whoever invented county government must have loved disarray. This resolution, though, makes sense."

The finance committee said the objective of its resolution is to inform the public of what the county is paying for, and how much it costs. "It's really the public who is paying for it, through, with taxes," said finance committee member Rudy Papa, Bethalto. "There can be a lot of money involved before this is all over."

THE FINANCE committee said it was prompted to create the resolution after Verticchio submitted his bill for services during the grand jury probe of Weber.

On April 26, the finance committee received a bill for $11,960 from Verticchio for services spread over a period of several months.

From that bill, Verticchio was paid $804.70 for court reporter fees; the remaining $11,155.30 was for his hourly rate of $75.

"The finance committee thought that was pretty high," said finance committee chairman Bill Little of Alton. "Not that it wasn't justified, but there was no breakdown. The public should know what the cost is."

LITTLE SAID the intent is to have each monthly bill itemized, although it is not explicitly required in the resolution.

Finance committee member Fred Dalton, Collinsville, first suggested the resolution at a finance committee meeting in late May.

The special grand jury under Verticchio had indicted Weber on two counts of official misconduct. A judge dismissed the charges last Friday.

Prosecutor appeals dismissal of charges against Don Weber

The special prosecutor handling allegations against Madison County State's Attorney Don Weber announced Friday that he plans to appeal the dismissal of two counts of official misconduct against Weber. He also invited Weber's attorneys to join him in appealing directly to the Illinois Supreme Court, rather than to the Fifth District Appeals Court in Mount Vernon.

Special Prosecutor Paul Verticchio told the Press-Record Friday that he feels Circuit Judge Howard Lee White of Jersey County, who was brought in to handle the Weber case, "erred in dismissing the indictments" May 31.

"THUS, IN FAIRNESS to the people of Madison County, the special grand jury, the complainants, the trial judge and the defendant; and since this case relates to the administration of justice in Madison County, we have decided to file a notice of appeal...during the week of June 11, 1984," he said.

Verticchio said he would prefer to bypass the Appeals Court and take the case directly to the Supreme Court, but will only do so if Weber's attorneys, Donald Greening and Edward Moorman choose to join him in making a joint request. "We have also advised counsel for the defendant that our office would join in a petition for an appeal directly to the Supreme Court...in that the public interest requires prompt adjudication by the Supreme Court of Illinois," Verticchio said.

If the case is taken to the Appellate Court, both sides would be given 30 days to file briefs in the case and it could take months for the court to rule. A Supreme Court decision, on the other hand, would settle the matter for good, possibly within 60 days.

A SPECIAL grand jury headed by Verticchio indicted Weber on charges that he ordered former Assistant State's Attorney Keith Jensen to have another grand jury return indictments at a time politically favorable to Weber.

Jensen contends Weber told him to have the grand jury return indictments before the March 20 Republican primary, in which Weber won re-nomination for his post, but Weber changed his mind later, saying he thought it would appear too political.

Jensen, who quit Weber's staff when he filed the court documents alleging the pressure by Weber, also contends that Weber ordered him again to have the assessment grand jury return indictments by March 28, to gain favorable publicity before another special grand jury studying allegations about Weber was to convene. That grand jury, studying various allegations by Belleville attorney Ariel Cueto of wrongdoing by Weber, including prosecuting a client of Cueto's in a rape case when Weber knew the defendant was innocent. No assessments against Weber were returned by that grand jury.

THE SECOND grand jury studying allegations against Weber, this one concentrating on Jensen's allegations, did indict the state's attorney on two counts of official misconduct. Judge White, however, ruled May 31 that the indictments should be dismissed because Weber's actions were not sufficient to be deemed in excess of his official duties and did not violate the power of his office.

Weber was unavailable for comment.

Q: I read your recent article about personal bankruptcy, but I wonder if you could answer a question which confuses me: What is the difference between Chapter 7 and Chapter 13 bankruptcy proceedings?

A: As we mentioned in the column you referred to, bankruptcy is a most serious move, and a last resort. To answer your question, Chapter 7 proceedings involve sale of the debtor's assets to pay off his debts. A certain part of his assets are protected by Federal law, however. Under Chapter 13 bankruptcy, creditors are paid what they would have received under Chapter 7, but over a period as long as five years. In this case, the debtor also keeps his assets, is liable for minimal tax consequences and is not barred from additional bankruptcy declarations within six years, as he is under Chapter 7. It is still a serious move, and anyone considering bankruptcy should first talk with his financial counselor or banker.

Seat belt law will be ignored

We have always fought against unnecessary and unwarranted government restraints over the citizens of Illinois and will continue to do so, but we may go down where George Orwell's big brother concept made its biggest strides.

It's only June, and, already this year, it appears government is going to force us to undergo mandatory vehicle emission testing and, now, require us to wear seat belts in the front seats of our vehicles. Our private rights, at least in motor vehicles, are rapidly disappearing.

The Senate Transportation Committee Thursday passed the bill to require seat belt use and sent it on to the full Senate for a vote. The House of Representatives already has passed the bill by a 61-46 vote.

The requirement is likely to be ignored. Non-compliance carries only a $25 fine and violators probably will not be fined unless stopped by the police for another offense, since officers cannot see a seat belt violation from their squad cars and are not likely to set up roadblocks to test for seat belt usage.

As today's Readers React column shows, we have found the proposed bill to be unpopular to many. Of those we have interviewed, not one was in favor of the mandatory seat belt law.

On the positive side, use of seat belts could save some lives. It is estimated that 200 to 400 of the 1,500 people killed in Illinois last year would be alive if they had been wearing seat belts. Considering that many of those who might have been saved would not have been wearing seat belts, even if there had been a law, we suspect the number of lives this law would save is minimal.

We urge the Senate to weigh the benefits of the bill against the loss of freedom and privacy of every individual in Illinois before voting. In our opinion, the benefits would just not be worth it.

Helping keep the oceans clean

The Navy has decided not to dispose of its old nuclear submarines by scuttling them offshore in deep water. That's good.

The ocean is a great receiver of waste from the land. Rivers carry minerals and salts out to sea. Cities like New York dump trash offshore by the barge load. Coastal cities give primary treatment to their sewage, then pipe it through outfalls to coastal waters.

The ocean is an organic stew of growing and decaying matter. No matter how it is poisoned, it recovers its health and fertility. But nuclear waste is toxic in a unique way. Its radioactivity can last for centuries. The spent reactor of a nuclear submarine, even after its uranium fuel rods have been removed, contains enough residual radioactivity to poison the chain of marine life.

In all probability, the Navy submarines could have been disposed of at sea without any noticeable effect. But there was a risk. And if, for instance, subs were sunk off San Francisco and Dungeness crabs became radio-active, there would be no way to recover the subs and make it safe once again to serve crab cocktails on Fishermen's Wharf.

So the Navy will cut up the old submarines and ship the radioactive parts up the Columbia River to Richland, Wash., where they can be safely buried in the government's nuclear trash dump at the Hanford atomic works. It will be a more expensive disposal method, but it will be safer.

As new Trident submarines join the fleet, we have agreed with the Soviet Union to dispose of an old missile-firing submarine for every new one that is commissioned. We are planning to build at least 11 Tridents.

So there will be at least 11 submarine reactors in the atomic graveyard just north of Washington state's Horse Heaven Hills. Rest in peace.

Chamber opposes 'court shopping' bill

To the Editor:

One of our important constitutional freedoms — the right to a fair trial — is being threatened by the Illinois General Assembly and, so far, this issue has not received the public attention it deserves. We'd like to spell out for you what is going on.

During the past 10 years, plaintiffs from all over the country have been filing personal injury lawsuits in the Illinois counties of Madison and St. Clair. Defendants and witnesses have been forced to travel great distances, at a tremendous cost and inconvenience, to defend these cases in counties which have little or no relationship to the cause giving rise to the lawsuit.

Why do plaintiffs wish to file suits in these counties? Because the predominantly blue collar area is notorious for returning large jury awards in personal injury cases. This is "court shopping."

The situation has gotten so bad, in fact, that the Illinois Supreme Court, through decisions and, more recently, through a Supreme Court Rule, established factors a judge must consider when the judge is asked to transfer the case to a court which is more convenient to the parties and witnesses involved in the action. Otherwise the most compelling circumstances, the court said, should be moved from the jurisdiction where the alleged injury occurred.

This brings us to H.B. 1859, which passed the Illinois House May 23 by a vote of 63-46. It is expected to be voted on by the Senate before the end of June.

It was at the urging of attorneys in Madison and St. Clair Counties that House Majority Leader Jim McPike (D-Alton) pushed H.B. 1859 through the House. Now, the bill appears to be steamrolling through the Senate. The Senate Rules Committee voted it out on May 30th. If this legislation passes and is signed into law by the governor, the courts in Madison and St. Clair Counties will continue to be a haven for multimillion dollar personal injury lawsuits from across the nation. The right of defendants to a fair trial by impartial judges and juries will continue to be jeopardized.

This legislation would, in effect, nullify those Illinois Appellate and Supreme Court decisions and the Supreme Court rule which declared that lawsuits should be tried in those courts it is most convenient for both plaintiffs and defendants.

The impact of the court rulings and the Supreme Court rule threatens the notorious multimillion dollar legal business that has grown up around plaintiffs' lawsuits in Madison and St. Clair Counties. Efforts by defendants to move cases to more convenient forums, usually where the parties to the lawsuit reside, have been blocked by judges in these counties. For example, a St. Louis woman who claimed she was injured in a fall at a hardware store in St. Louis County filed suit against the store in St. Clair County, Illinois. The judge in St. Clair accepted the case, refused to transfer it to a more convenient court and it took an Illinois Appellate Court judge to remove the case to St. Louis, where it rightfully belonged.

The Illinois Press Association has joined the Illinois Railroad Association and the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce in opposing this legislation.

COMMUNITY CLEANUP SHOULD CONTINUE DAILY

To the Editor:

Why do we need a special day called "Clean Up Day"? If the people of Granite City would take pride in the appearance of their city each day, there would be no need for "Clean Up Day." I can't understand why people must throw their trash on the ground instead of holding onto it until a trash can is available.

If there is trash in front of your home or business, would it be so bad if you cleaned it up? Why must people when they mow their lawn stop the grass into the street? If you just turned your lawn mower, it would go back on the lawn. I couldn't believe my eyes the other day when I saw a businessman with one of those blowing machines actually blowing his freshly mowed grass further into the street with this blower.

What about all these stores with paper blowing all around? Don't you care what we look like? You don't have to have money to be clean and neat?

Could it be we are too lazy? Maybe just blind. We want, but we don't want to do. If you are not guilty, put yourself on the back. You are probably one of the reasons why this city looks so good. Not probably, you are!

Quad-City residents were asked how they feel about the pending state legislation that would require front seat passengers to wear seat belts in autos, vans and trucks. Their reactions follow:

Donna Kimbro, Granite City

"I am against this and I refuse to do it. It's an invasion of my privacy by the state. I don't think the state has a right to force any driver or passenger to wear a seat belt. It should be optional and up to the individual."

Everett Morlen, Granite City

"I don't think they (the state) could force anyone to wear their seat belts. I know a person who got hurt just as bad wearing a seat belt as if she hadn't had it on. I think it's infringing on the rights of the people. If you're just driving somewhere down the street, I can't see getting all buckled up. If people would drive at the speed they were supposed to, they wouldn't even need to put them (seat belts) on a car."

Don Mangiaracino, Granite City

"I feel the same way about this law as I do about the mandatory helmet law (for motorcyclists)—I don't believe in it. A seat belt can kill you just as easily as it can save you."

Jackie Reinagel, Granite City

"I am against it. I have heard that seat belts can kill you as well as save you because the belt might not function after you are in an accident. I personally do not wear one (a seat belt)."

Says better care of animals needed here

To the Editor:

I'm writing this letter of concern about the many stray dogs that are running our streets. One way to put a stop to this cruel, merciless disposal of unwanted animals would be for people who own dogs to have them spayed or neutered if they are going to let them roam the streets and stop this overpopulation of unwanted animals.

People nowadays just don't take the responsibility of owning pets. They let them roam the streets when they're in heat. When the she dog shows signs of pregnancy, both she and her puppies are dumped out in the streets.

Also, there are people who have their dogs sitting out in the hot sun all day with no food or water and no dog house. They just leave them tied to a tree all day with just a few feet to move.

Why do people who treat their animals so cruelly even care to have a animal in the first place? They must be sadists at heart. I don't think people should have pets if they aren't willing to give them the care and attention they need.

Another way to end this merciless disposal of unwanted dogs would be to have fines enforced for those who are caught dropping their unwanted animals in the streets. There should also be a leash law enforced in this town. Either the people keep their dogs on a leash going down the street or keep them in a fenced-in yard, or else be fined for not obeying the law. This would also help to put a end to the stray dog problem in this town.

We need some kind of animal protection in this town, and we need it now! Animals can't protect themselves, so it is up to the people of this town to give them some kind of protection.

These poor dumb animals can't protect themselves. It's up to us, so let's get with it.

Angered by reporting of drainage problem

To the Editor:

Some corrections, please, to the May 31, page 8 story by Pat Hay-Lutz on the Tuesday, May 27, Nameoki Township Meeting.

Residents of the 4200 block of Breckenridge Lane were present BECAUSE the drainage ditch situated across a lot in the mid-block — east side — (until 1980 a six-foot-deep, six-foot-wide ditch — since 1982 only one foot depth restored) HAD ALREADY BEEN FILLED IN on Friday evening May 18. We protested FACT — not "POSSIBILITY" as the article states. "The possibility of a drainage ditch being filled in" and, also, "although the residents were assured that the new owner has no intention of filling in the ditch."

The residents present at the meeting are not "featherheads" who "knee-jerk" at "POSSIBILITIES." We protest FACTS. The fact being the third blocking of this ditch in the past decade. We didn't take time to attend the meeting on Tuesday evening because of a mere "possibility."

We openly protested this third ditch blocking — having properly reported same to the township supervisor (5/18/84) when the ditch was being filled in.

The new owner disclaimed knowledge of the tractor-backhoe operator's blocking the ditch, stating his uncle had offered to send a piece of his uncle's construction company machinery to uproot a large Cottonwood tree on the north side of the ditch. At the meeting the Uncle stated he hired a man to take machinery (not his construction machinery) onto the lot in question — but not to block the ditch.

When approached on May 18, the backhoe operator stated, "Tell the owner! The owner sent me to fill in this ditch and put a new ditch near that fence (south lot boundary) — and north boundary fence of F. Barringer." The operator said he didn't know the name of the "owner" who had sent him.

The title to the lot in question describes a "farmer's ditch" which cannot be blocked. Prior to subdivision developments this was all farm land. Whether or not crops planted in this area resulted in profitable harvest depended, in part, on the land being drained to the ditch in question. God "help" anyone who would have blocked that "farmer's ditch" and jeopardized the crop! The legal protection afforded that ditch carried over to protection of property rights of purchasers of subdivision lots. It is categorized as a "minor drainage ditch" as opposed to "major street drainage channels."

The new owner of the lot has, at least, two alternatives: position the placement of house to utilize the 135 feet depth of the lot, or recover his financial investment in the lot by reselling it, as the two prior owners did.

Property-owners of the west side of 4200 block of Breckenridge welcome the addition of new neighbors who display the same kind of respect for OUR rights the new owners hope to be accorded to them.

It seems rather sad that the valid rights to drainage of property-owners become more complicated because a new lot-owner "wants" to place a house in a position to his "liking." That is the crux of the present situation.

Since the ditch was filled in on Friday, May 18, some three-two weeks ago — at this time the ball is in the court of the new owner.

Talk about the new owner's "good intentions" become credible only when the owner evidences good faith by removing the materials presently obstructing the ditch — which obstruction took place since he received ownership title — along with responsibility for — the lot and the ditch which runs through it, described in his title as a "farmer's ditch," not to be obstructed or blocked.

This type of reporting is not new. For quite some time, now, this "half-baked" quality appears to have become a pattern. Even a "stringer's" reports can set editing.

In closing, I should like to compliment Gary Schneider on the quality and content of his editorials. I particularly like the Editorial page being near the front of the newspaper. In years past, I preferred papers with page two editorials. Front page first — then editorials.

Local teen competes in U.S.A. Illinois Teen pageant

Rhonda Vest represented Granite City in the U.S.A. Teen Illinois pageant preliminary competition Sunday in Springfield. Miss Vest was among 50 Illinois teens participating in the contest. Pageant finals will be conducted later.

Contestants competed in three areas: dress modeling, tribute to a historical figure and interviews. Miss Vest chose the first female astronaut, Dr. Sally Ride, as the subject of her tribute.

She said Friday that she was excited about the competition. "It's hard work, but you get to meet a lot of new people."

As Granite City's Teen, Miss Vest must appear and help with special events, appear in parades and emcee next year's U.S.A. Illinois Teen pageant, which is being hosted by Granite City. If she wins the title of U.S.A. Illinois Teen, she will advance on to the National U.S.A. Teen pageant.

Miss Vest is a 1984 graduate of Granite City High School and plans to attend Southern Illinois University in the fall. She has previously won awards in modeling, baton twirling and singing competition and teaches modeling and baton twirling.

RHONDA VEST competed Sunday in the U.S.A. Illinois Teen pageant preliminaries in Springfield. Vest is currently Granite City's Teen.

Local headquarters for Statue of Liberty fund

Granite Chrysler-Plymouth announced today that it has joined hundreds of other Chrysler Corporation dealerships by becoming a Founding Sponsor in the Liberty Centennial Campaign 1886-1986. With its contribution, Granite Chrysler-Plymouth also becomes an official information center for the campaign and it will distribute literature and contribution forms.

The Liberty Centennial Campaign 1886-1986 is a national program designed to support the reconstruction of and provide ongoing maintenance for the Statue of Liberty and nearby Ellis Island in New York City. Fireflies sought for research

The Sigma Firefly Scientists Club, a division of St. Louis-based Sigma Chemical Co., announced the 24th annual "Fireflies for Science" campaign. The company said there is a continuing need for fireflies in areas as varied as the study of heart disease and muscular dystrophy, urology, antibiotic testing, waste water retent, environmental protection and the early diagnosis of hypothermia in swine. Sigma pays its firefly catchers a penny for each firefly turned in.

Each year hundreds of individuals, Boy Scout troops and church groups get out their nets to further medical research and get a little exercise while earning money.

The firefly tail contains two chemicals, luciferin and luciferase. When combined with adenosine triphosphate (ATP) an energy storage compound found in all living cells, the firefly's green glow is produced. What makes the glow useful is that it appears whenever the firefly chemicals are mixed with ATP from any living thing. Its intensity is a sensitive measure of the amount of ATP present.

Membership in the club is open to any individual or group. Firefly collectors are paid weekly with incentive bonuses added for especially ambitious participants at these levels.

For more information interested persons may contact the Sigma Firefly Scientists Club at 1-314-771-5765.

Bicyclist, motorist injured in crashes

Riding, a bicycle east across Madison Avenue at Niedringhaus Avenue at 7:40 p.m. Thursday, Joseph J. Kaylich, 16, of 1028 Washington Ave., Madison, was knocked down, injured and taken away by ambulance. But he recuperated enough to be discharged Friday from St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Kaylich emerged from between parked autos in the Novotny Chevrolet agency's used car lot. Although there was traffic, he told police he thought he would be able to cross Madison Avenue before traffic lights changed.

Southbound on Madison, Lisa Armour, 19, of 2219 E. 24th St., halted her auto for a stoplight and drove forward when it changed to green. The collision followed before she could react to the bicyclist.

Her vehicle was in an inner lane. A woman driving in the outer lane said she only barely avoided hitting the bicycle.

In another accident, Elsie Foster, 70, of 2312 W. 23rd St. was taken by ambulance and was admitted to SEMC. Her condition later was described as good.

She was driving north at noon Thursday in an inside lane when a blue van left a parking place and veered in front of her car.

Elsie Foster swerved to avoid hitting the van and her auto crossed southbound lanes, entered a yard and struck a concrete retaining wall at the Mary Rice residence, 2425 Madison Ave.

The car sustained front end damage and was towed from the scene.

the board that Hollywood Andrews has been recommended by the students and the administration.

The board also adopted resolutions to publish the prevailing wage rate, to authorize an extension of time on building maintenance and to authorize a levy to alter or reconstruct school district buildings.

New firearm ID forms necessary

The Illinois Department of Law Enforcement is reminding applicants for Firearm Owner's Identification (FOID) Cards that only new application forms will be accepted after July 1. Any of the old application forms received after that date will be rejected and returned to the sender. The July 1 deadline applies to both new applicants and those filing for renewal of their FOID cards.

Changes in the FOID Act and the Deadly Weapons Act have made a new application form necessary. Beginning July 1, any person convicted of a felony will be ineligible to acquire or possess firearms or ammunition in Illinois. An additional provision of the new law gives the Department of Law Enforcement the authority to deny a new card or revoke an active card if the applicant has made a false statement on the application.

New FOID applications, which have been available since May 1, reflect the changes in the law. Each application carries the warning that false statements made by the applicant may result in prosecution for perjury.

The Department of Law Enforcement will continue to accept the outdated application forms until June 30.

Gifted writing recognition to 4

When the Gifted Area Service Center this spring conducted a writing talent search, a panel of 15 judges read 373 pieces of writing which were submitted from 47 school districts. Each district selected its best writing samples to submit to the region.

Granite City Community Unit School District Nine had four of the 15 top entries at the senior high level. The Granite City High School students honored were: Dawn Kamodulski, first place, prose (9th grade); Kim Joyce, second place, prose (9th grade); Lisa Sheikh, first place, prose (12th grade); and Christopher King, first place, Poetry (12th grade).

Local lawyers face

appear Mosele was "soft on crime and DeLaurente was a "do-nothing" judge. Thousands of dollars were used in the advertising campaign. The canons of ethics for lawyers forbid lawyers from making untrue statements about judges.

THE INVESTIGATION made news in February 1982 when some local lawyers and members of the committee that ran the campaign were subpoenaed and closed hearings were held at the Holiday Inn in Edwardsville.

Beatty was reached by the Press-Record Friday, said he would "love to give you an ear full, but better not," and referred inquiries to his attorney, Raymond Freark. Freark said he does not wish to comment because it is a matter of pending litigation. "It will be handled just as any other matter of litigation," he said.

The other five attorneys' offices were reached by the Press-Record Friday. Secretaries said Chapman and Lakin were out of town on business. The others were not available.

THE REQUEST for the release of the information on the complaint, according to the Post-Dispatch, was under Supreme Court rules "that allow disclosure" where there has been a public disclosure of allegations which, if true, could result in discipline," according to that newspaper. It adds that the court may disclose whether charges have been filed "in the interest of the public and the legal profession." Target of the complaint is the seven-member committee which called itself the "Committee for an Improved Judiciary," operating primarily out of the Chapman and Carlson law firm in Granite City. Some of those named on the committee's letterhead said they were not involved in the campaign, but loaned their names to it because they opposed the judges. One member, who was not an attorney, later apologized for his role in the campaign.

BOTH MOSELE and DeLaurente were ousted in the subsequent voting, requiring 60 percent votes for retention. DeLaurente missed the 60 percent by only one percent. He was reappointed in June 1982 by the Illinois Supreme Court to fill his own vacancy and was re-elected that November.

Mosele now is in private practice in East Alton. Post-election disclosure forms filed by the committee with the State Board of Elections showed contributions to the committee totaling $11,550 by Chapman and Carlson, $10,750 from Schooley and $5,200 from Lakin.

THE HEARING BOARD is expected to make its own "final fact" on the matter and make recommendations to the Supreme Court, which will determine final action. Discipline can range from a reprimand to taking away a lawyer's license to practice.

German journalists

Mo., home of Mark Twain, where they purchased a pontoon boat and small motor and pitched a tent on it.

BEFORE LEAVING Hannibal, they interviewed and photographed a 94-year-old woman who remembered Mark Twain's funeral. "She was a marvelous woman — so refreshing. Old people here seem much more alive in America than Europe."

While they thought they had planned the trip well, they had underestimated the river. The tent on the boat didn't last too long. "We underestimated the winds here. It is so windy. We finally stopped at a lumber yard and constructed a wood and canvas cabin for the boat," Zander said.

Then they set out "to be a romantic" on the river. "We haven't decided which of us is Huck and which is Jim," he added.

THEY ENJOY floating at a slow pace and observing the countryside, they said. Zander says they particularly enjoy pulling into coves on islands and swimming and fishing. They spent two days in one cove, just enjoying, as Huck Finn might have said, "the life of the river."

One place they disagree with the devil-may-care attitude of Huck is in neatness on the boat. "We must know where every spoon is. It has a place and must be there. You can't observe the countryside if you spend a half-hour searching for your spoon. It gives us freedom to know where the spoon is," Zander said.

Zander said he believes Europeans are more familiar with Huck Finn than Americans, "because they read more." He says the success of their magazine, which has the style of Life Magazine here, is an example, carrying 350 to 400 pages each week.

"In America, you don't read. You are sitting in front of your television set all day. I haven't got a TV in my home. It is washing your brain. I get a sick head after two hours of TV."

THEIR LEISURE on the river has been disturbed numerous times by speeding boats. "The way Americans drive on the river is just for speed. We are like old people. We like to float and see things. Europeans are not in as much of a hurry as we are," he observed.

While they have encountered several driving rains on their journey, for the most part it has been slow and enjoyable, Meffert said.

When they floated to Granite City, they found no suitable place to dock, so they continued to St. Louis and rented a car to drive back here and photograph Granite City Steel, old apartment flats and other sites they considered interesting. They picked up materials on the city's history at the Chamber of Commerce and stopped by to chat with Press-Record reporters.

MEFFERT and Zander come to America annually to do a feature on American life. Three years ago, they did a feature on American television preachers, two years ago they featured the use of electronics and computers in American schools and last year they did an in-depth feature on development and use of artificial hearts in Salt Lake City.

"We like to come to America. Germans are bitter. Here we get fresh air, we are not crowded and we get to talk to Americans and see America from various points of view," Zander said.

They were intrigued by the number of overweight people they have seen. "We were interested in the weight of Americans, but we have been treated with great gentleness everywhere. Being overweight may make people more patient," he observed.

THEIR JOURNEY this year will continue for about four weeks toward New Orleans. However, they could care less about reaching New Orleans or seeing the World's Fair there. "Huck Finn's boat, in the book, disappeared somewhere north of New Orleans. I hope our ship will sink somewhere near New Orleans," Zander joked. "But not until I get the cameras out," added Meffert.

HEADLINE EVENT!

Behold, He cometh with clouds, and every eye shall see Him. Revelation 1:7

When the Lord Jesus told His disciples that He would be leaving them (John 13:33), they reacted with disbelief and dismay. But He quickly gave His faithful followers the promise, "I will come again." And what a coming that will be! One who died generations ago will actually return to this earth. Yes, when our Lord comes back, it will be such a phenomenal occurrence that it will command worldwide attention.

Did you know that the type most newspapers use for astounding events is called "second coming" type? These are large, heavy, black letters reserved for only the most stupendous, amazing, front page news — such as the return of Jesus Christ. Many will remember seeing this banner headline used to announce the surrenders of Germany and Japan, marking the end of World War II. It also told the news of the assassination of John F. Kennedy and the shooting of President Reagan. This bold heading style has proclaimed successful flights into space, presidential election winners, and other dramatic events of universal importance.

"One day mankind will witness the great event for which the 'second coming' type was named — the return of Jesus Christ. Yes, the Savior will literally come back to this planet long ago. He will fulfill the promise He gave to His disciples before He ascended to heaven. And when He does, He will command the attention of all earth's inhabitants. The whole world will know that the Lord Jesus is alive. Truly it will be a 'headline event'!"

Someday the Lord Himself shall come:

I cannot tell how soon 'twill be,

But this I know — in heaven my home —

He has a place prepared for me.

We don't know what this world is coming to, but we do know the One who is coming to this world.

Ponce permanent head of Venice-Lincoln Center

By PAT HAY LUTZ
for the Press-Record

Accepting the resignation of the former director of the Venice-Lincoln Technical Center, Venice School Board members appointed acting director Peter Ponce to the permanent position last week.

Ponce replaces Duane Rankin, who has been on a two-year leave of absence, during which he served as director for the Southern Illinois Area Adult Service Center.

BOARD PRESIDENT Wilbert Glasper accepted Rankin's resignation "with regrets," praising Rankin for his work at the Venice-Lincoln Technical Center. "He has been a very important part of that center and he did a fine job," Glasper said.

Glasper approved the appointment of Ponce, saying, "He has performed well as the interim."

In other business, the board accepted a bid of $12,896 from Whitehead Roofing Co. of Venice to repair hail damage to the roofs of several school buildings in the district. Since an insurance adjustment amount given to the district for the damage to the roofs is $14,117, the district will save money on the project, Superintendent Robert Vickers explained.

OTHER BIDS accepted by board members include the supplying of milk products by Prairie Farms of Granite City, bread products by Bunny Bread of Anna, Ill., and gasoline products from Venice Gas and Oil Co.

Superintendent Vickers also was authorized to prepare the 1985 budget for the board meeting in July. In a report to board members,

PETER PONCE

Vickers designated several areas for repairs, listing gutters and downspouts as top priority. Vickers suggested that the board use $10,000 to $15,000 in tax anticipation warrants to make the necessary repairs, including concrete work on steps, new windows, and renovation of the girl's shower room, which Vickers stated is "not equal" to the boy's newly-tiled shower area. He also asked board members to consider authorizing the painting of the cafeteria and the ground level classrooms, which have not been painted in eight years.

Board members approved the transfer of $14,200 between various accounts as repayment of money borrowed against these accounts to meet payroll and pay bills.

Remedies in sight for center's potholes

In response to concerns about the large number of potholes at the Nameoki Village and Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center, Police Chief Ronald Veizer told Granite City Council members that some progress is being made.

Veizer said Nameoki Village's parking lot is in "good shape" and that K-Mart is going to have a contractor out in the near future to remedy the potholes in its lot.

Veizer said that he had some trouble contacting a representative of the Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center, but he did reach someone and they are "looking into" getting some repairs done.

"I told them that we (the Granite City police) were not going to answer any more emergency calls out there because we can't afford to lose the vehicles (through damage by the potholes)," Veizer said.

BURGLARY FOILED WHEN OWNER RETURNS HOME

She stated she was at home and left to talk to neighbors for a couple of minutes. When she returned, she noticed that someone had moved her television from the living room to the kitchen table and had also placed her stereo system on the floor.

$1.5 million is awarded for coal research

The Illinois Coal Research Board has approved $1,513,381 to fund 21 research studies primarily designed to improve the economical removal of sulfur and other harmful substances from Illinois coal.

Thirteen ongoing research projects previously funded by the board and eight new projects were approved at nine research institutions across the state. The coal research studies have a long-term objective of contributing to the production of clean heat and power from Illinois coal.

This funding by the Coal Research Board demonstrates a serious commitment to apply Illinois scientific talent to an Illinois economic problem," said Michael B. Witte, director of the Illinois Department of Energy and Natural Resources and chairman of the board. "We're making progress in learning more about coal-sulfur chemistry, understanding the nature of sulfur extraction chemical reactions, and in bringing more economical desulfurization technology into the marketplace."

Funding of almost $1.5 million was awarded to the Center for Research on Sulfur in Coal, a formal partnership of the Illinois State Geological Survey, the University of Illinois-Urbana-Champaign, Southern Illinois University, Northwestern University, the University of Illinois-Chicago, and Argonne National Laboratory. Funds also were granted to the University of Chicago and the Illinois Institute of Technology.

"Illinois coal has a high heating value, is high in hydrocarbons, tar and sulfur and low in moisture and ash," added Chairman Witte. "These characteristics make the center's study goals of removing sulfur before combustion, using hydrocarbons as fuels and chemical feedstocks, and producing a clean solid fuel particularly appropriate in reaching a goal that we all share - increasing the production and use of Illinois coal."

The awards were made through the Coal Technology Assistance Fund, which provides a portion of the State's Public Utility Tax for coal research, development and commercialization activities.

Requests for proposals were issued in January based on a appropriation from the fund made available to the Board of Governor Thompson and the General Assembly. Final awards were approved by the Coal Research Board late last week.

The Illinois Coal Research Board was created in 1981 to support and coordinate research aimed at increasing the use of Illinois' high sulfur coal. To date, more than $3.3 million has been awarded to Illinois universities and research laboratories through the Board's program.

Tax delay may negate role of township collectors

With this year's tax payments by real estate owners not expected to start until August or September, collection by townships may be impossible, with the entire task instead taken over by the counties.

Many taxing bodies say they face a "long, hot summer" of penny-pinching and borrowing.

Their officials are unhappy over the late timing of the tax billing. It is mandated by law for June 1 or as soon thereafter as possible, but it seldom occurs in June.

A HEAVY WORKLOAD is blamed this year, most of the townships having conducted quadrennial reassessments in recent months.

More than 300 appraisals were required in the county this year, and authorities conferred during hearings with a large number of property owners who had filed assessment appeals.

Townships hoping to do their own collecting may be thwarted by the delay.

Illinois statutes contain a Sept. 1 cutoff date, after which taxes must be collected by counties, on the incorrect assumption that townships had all summer to get the job done.

EVEN WITH the lateness of this year's assessment work, the taxing cycle could have been expedited if estimates (based on the previous year's taxes) were being utilized for the first of the two real estate tax installments, Nameoki Township Collector Norman Hall said during the weekend.

Since the advent of computers, it would be relatively simple to proceed on that basis, using the second installment to adjust the total amount billed, Hall is convinced. He said a number of Illinois counties do this.

In the absence of estimated billing, various authorities are projecting that the 1984 collection (for the 1983 tax year) may be one, two or three months later than a year ago.

SUPT. B.J. DAVIS of the Granite City school district said Friday that each day of delay costs the school system at least $800 in interest.

The GC district's operating debt exceeds $8 million. Edwardsville schools also foresee multi-million-dollar borrowing this summer.

The GC district's operating debt exceeds $8 million. Edwardsville schools also foresee multi-million-dollar borrowing this summer.

Triad District Supt. Robert Rogers says schools are discouraged by the fact that "Madison County usually is one of the latest in getting its tax bills out. Districts in other counties I know of already have their bills out."

TEACHER ORDERS are being considered for issuance by Worden schools, as a way of meeting their payroll; the district would borrow against the paychecks while awaiting the tax bills.

Some cities, townships and park districts also expect cash flow difficulties this summer.

Madison County Clerk Evelyn

Bowles thinks the bills may not be mailed out until September.

THE BOARD OF REVIEW says it hopes to consider final township multipliers by this Friday.

After multipliers are applied and show the revised 1983 assessment totals, the latter figures are matched with levies to determine the tax rates.

These rates then are applied to individual valuations to show the amount of tax that should be billed to a particular family or company.

Miss Bowles has not yet received the assessment books, in contrast to a year ago, when they became available in April. Rates and total values were announced in early June of 1983, and billing began in mid-July.

A NEW SETBACK has just been dealt to those local-level taxing bodies which had been counting on receiving interest from counties that had delayed past tax distributions.

Courts have ruled that counties should have distributed the funds promptly. But legislation to "forgive" counties from paying retroactive interest to local taxing units for 1979 to 1983 was passed last week by the Illinois House Revenue Committee.

The amount at stake is at least $4 million in Madison County, including perhaps $750,000 for Granite City schools.

Dialogue on drugs

A column by
The Granite City Chemical People Task Force

The usage of drugs can be divided into four basic levels. The levels we will discuss are: curiosity, social, regular and dependent usage.

The curiosity user is a person who hears about different substances and wants to experiment. The person wants to know "What's this all about?" At this level, the person may satisfy his or her curiosity and quit or decide to continue use for unlimited reasons. This is a level at which prevention can be very effective because more knowledge on the subject for the user may help the user make a rational decision. It's like feeling the heat from a fire, but not touching the flame. The knowledge you have that the flame will burn you prevents you from touching the flame.

A social user is a person who does not actively seek substances to use on his own. This person is the user that is with a group, perhaps a party, and because the substance is available, will use the substance. This level is strongly affected by peer pressure, because everyone wants to belong to a group. Prevention still is effective at this level, but the knowledge needed is more of how to say "no" than the substances' effects.

The regular user is a person who will actively seek substances for personal use. The individual may use substances both privately and socially. Socially, this person may be the one that supplies the social user. This individual can still live an acceptable life and is not harming others around him. Prevention may not be too effective at this level and it may take a traumatic experience or professional assistance to stop use.

To the dependent user, drugs are the most important thing in his life. The individual's whole outlook turns towards the use of drugs. The person's actions have negative effects on the people around him and he is not likely to be a productive part of society. At this level, professional intervention is probably necessary.

For more information about chemical abuse, or if you have a question of comment about this column, interested persons may write to: Dialogue on Drugs, Post Office Box 278, Granite City, Ill., 62040. The task force meets at 7 p.m. every Thursday at Maryville School, Room 140.

Judge Matoesian is re-elected chief judge

Chief Circuit Judge A.A. Matoesian, 46, of Granite City, has been re-elected to another term as chief judge in the Third Circuit Court.

In a closed meeting at the Madison County Courthouse in Edwardsville, Matoesian's office was approved by all eight of the circuit judges.

Matoesian said Friday that he is happy to have the deputy circuit judges' approvals. "It's gratifying to be re-elected chief judge," he told the Press-Record. "I do want to say, however, that the hard work by all the other judges has made this job easier. They have all been very cooperative."

Last week's action marks the second time Matoesian was re-elected to the chief judge post. Matoesian was first elected in Dec. 1, 1982.

Before becoming a chief judge, Matoesian served as an associate judge from 1965 to 1977, when he was appointed a circuit judge to fill the vacancy left by John Gilchiff, who returned to private law practice.

Matoesian said that the appointment of the chief circuit judge is made annually. He said he will only serve one more term in that office.

State considering an anti-felony team

Governor James R. Thompson has called for the passage, in a special message to the legislature, of legislation expanding the state's efforts to ensure Illinois citizens' safety.

Initiatives proposed by the administration include new ways to safeguard the rights of crime victims, a strategic anti-felony team (SAF-T) to attack serious crime, stepped-up regulation of the transportation of hazardous materials, and improved methods of monitoring the nuclear industry.

"Citizens have every right to expect government protection from criminals, nuclear pollution and hazardous wastes—problems over which they have no individual control. We have made progress in ensuring public safety in these areas but there is more to be done," the governor said.

SAF-T, a specialized unit within the Department of Law Enforcement's Division of Criminal Investigation (DCI), would enable the state to step up the battle against crime; it would assist local agencies in handling major criminal cases, and provide services not now provided by either local or federal authorities, Thompson said.

Legislation by Sen. Frank Watson, Greenville, would fund the addition of 55 SAF-T agents at a cost of $2.9 million.

Other statutory changes would afford crime victims the opportunity, prior to sentencing, to say what the impact of a crime has been on their lives—and to have the same opportunity to make these statements before the Prisoner Review Board during parole hearings.

In addition, judges would be mandated to consider restitution in the sentencing of defendants.

In transportation of hazardous materials, the administration has sought $1.1 million for more personnel to implement the federal Motor Carrier Safety Program. The five-year program would increase enforcement of truck safety on Illinois highways, with 85 more certified officers chosen.

House Bill 3098 would raise fees paid by the owners of nuclear power plants, to finance sophisticated in-stack monitors at all nuclear power plants.

Other budget proposals include: —A 57 percent increase for the Department of Nuclear Safety to implement provisions of the Low Level Radioactive Waste Management Act of 1983. The staff would denote $300,000 to regulate and track all low-level waste being generated, stored, treated, transported or disposed of in Illinois.

—A 25 percent increase for the Office of Radiation Safety to fulfill U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission requirements for "agreement state" status. This would give Illinois direct control over low-level waste and its disposal.

Neighbors chase man, booked on 2 charges

Officers were called to the area behind the old cemetery near Kirkpatrick Homes at 10:30 p.m. last week after a group of neighbors from the 2400 block of Sheridan Avenue had chased a man who ran into an apartment in the housing complex, they learned.

A woman residing on Sheridan Avenue reported hearing someone at the front door and seeing a man walk off the porch and past the family car. She yelled for her husband, who gave chase with neighbors.

Two women preparing to visit another resident of the 2400 block of Sheridan saw the man on the porch and assisted in the pursuit by auto, reports said.

George Thomas Graf, 29, of 1717 Bremen Ave., who allegedly matched the description given police, was arrested at the Kirkpatrick Homes address and charged with disorderly conduct.

He also was booked on a state charge of indecent exposure, resulting from an April 28 incident in which he allegedly stood on the same woman's porch and committed a lewd act.

A description of the man in the April case, who was frightened off when the woman screamed, was provided at the time and Graf was identified as the man allegedly involved in that incident.

STEALS $400 LAWNMOWER

A thief cut a garage door chain this month and stole a green lawnmower valued at $400 at the home of Jackie Watkins, 2943 Edwards St.

File theft charges against two men in food store incident

Andrew J. Reid, 18, of 1751 Walnut St., was transferred to the Madison County Jail in Edwardsville last week, after pleading innocent to charges of theft connected to a weekend case in which a bank bag was stolen from Vartan's Market, 841 Niedringhaus Ave.

Reid also entered innocent pleas to charges contained in three warrants alleging aggravated assault, battery and criminal trespass to land, all stemming from a March 14 case involving an alleged attack on a Lincoln Place woman.

David L. Barton, 22, of 2513 North St., also was charged with theft in Vartan's Market case. He was released after posting a $102 cash bond.

Officers arrived at the market to find the owner had detained one man after discovering a bank bag containing cash and checks was missing from a file cabinet near the cash register. Other cash also was gone from a cash drawer, she said.

Barton, who was in the store buying lunch meat at the time the theft was discovered, was arrested.

Reid also had been in the market, it was alleged, but initially denied knowing Barton. He came to police headquarters after an investigation disclosed the two men had been working together on a roofing job nearby and that active warrants were on hand for his arrest.

Felony informational documents were issued last week from the Madison County state's attorney office to Venice Police Department against Ricky Salmond, 25, of 123 Grenzer Homes, Venice, who had been arrested by police after he allegedly displayed a gun, cut a woman with a knife and held two people against their will.

The two informations were for aggravated battery, for allegedly cutting Loretta Derrett's arm with a knife, and for restraint, for allegedly detaining Miss Derrett against her will.

Salmond previously was charged by Venice police with three counts of unlawful use of a weapon.

Tackett was taken into custody at the home of a relative in the 2100 block of Monroe Avenue, where he allegedly had argued earlier with the occupant over work and made threats.

The man left the dwelling, but later returned and allegedly had a 22-caliber automatic long rifle in his possession and was taken into custody by an officer.

Chapter I teaching commended

The State Board of Education has described the Granite City school system's Chapter I program as outstanding, based on a visitation team's findings April 24-25.

A report this month by Robert H. Hardy Jr., manager of the board's Compensatory Education Section, recommended that Coolidge Junior High Chapter I classes be no larger than 12 students.

He also proposed that teachers in the federally-aided program in District Nine prepare brief annual summaries to be filed with the director and reviewed when later projects are developed.

Hardy praised the helpfulness and courtesies of the local administration and staff. Warren D. Collins is director of Chapter I and Gary L. Pfoender is supervisor of Chapter I.

The state team found that fiscal reports were well organized, other required reports were on file and available, payroll records were correct and spending was in accord with budgeting and approval dates.

There was "maintenance of fiscal effort from state and local funds." Documentation for selection of target areas was in order, and there was a system of internal controls to separate Chapter I from other school funds.

All Chapter I teachers were found to be properly certified, and programmatic documentation was available on pre-test and post-test information, parent involvement, in-service training, complaint resolution procedures and dissemination of information to the public.

A private school administrator interviewed by the team had been contracted frequently during the school year for his input on Chapter I services. A parochial school visitation record was maintained to document private school participation.

Hardy said the 1984-85 year's needs assessment already has been completed, with both subjective and objective input clearly analyzed and available.

The team also concluded that: "Teachers are enthusiastic and concerned about meeting the needs of their students. First-year mathematics teachers are pleased with their new program."

"All teachers have a wide selection of tests to choose from to ensure that student needs have been thoroughly diagnosed. Staff members have been involved in planning the succeeding year's program and they are familiar with the various phases of the operation."

"Organization of the program is commendable. There is a high level of consistency in the program through Pfoender's coordination."

"Students transferring to different schools during the year do not suffer a lapse in services; teachers record test information, weak areas to be addressed, and materials and activities to be used during the remediation process."

"This information is in the student folders and is forwarded with the students. Teachers also have student interest inventories to get more personal information on each child. Teacher referral forms also are included in each child's folder."

"Individual progress is monitored closely and information from this was available in each folder. Individualization for each student was documented by weekly assignment sheets prepared for each. The assignment sheets are flexible."

"Students do not feel pressure to complete a designated amount of work per week; rather, they do as much as possible and left-over activities are carried over to the next week."

"Selection criteria are clear and the selection process is based on test data," and teachers' referrals. Documentation verified this process.

"Parents are properly notified of their child's placement in Chapter I. They also are informed quarterly through progress reports or individual conferences."

"The junior high program is supplemental to the students' regular programs of reading or math. The students take Chapter I as an extra elective and no credit is given for graduation.

"Materials are ample. First-year math teachers were especially pleased with the number of materials they had to choose from."

"Teachers commended Pfoender's efforts to provide meaningful in-service training for them. They also have had numerous opportunities to meet together to share information on materials and activities which would benefit their students."

"Pfoender has organized pertinent Chapter I information into a manageable spiral notebook. Teacher forms, the application, the complaint procedure and numerous other bits of information are now easily accessible with this valuable instrument."

"This was a great help to the monitors. Appropriate parts of this handbook could be duplicated and copies left in each school for better understanding of the program by regular classroom teachers."

"The district is commended for recognizing the need to expand the role of administrators in a Chapter I program of this size."

"Although having always maintained an acceptable program in the past, the district is in a state of transition with population shifts, school closings and, somewhat conversely, an expansion of the Chapter I program."

"New Chapter I staff and a new math component are now scattered in five separate sites across the district in this $500,000-plus program."

"Full-time administration is required if the program is to maintain this year's level of accomplishment. The number of concerns from the previous visit has been greatly reduced. Chapter I teacher morale is high, and the central office record-keeping system is greatly improved."

"Such positive improvements reflect the wisdom of the district's decision to expand the administrative role."

Clyde R. Sanders, 48, of Granite City was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol after the pickup truck he was driving was stopped by an officer in the 1800 block of Madison Avenue late last week. The man also was charged with disorderly conduct relating to another incident.

At police headquarters, Sanders agreed to take a breathalyzer test which was administered by an Illinois State trooper.

Police were on the lookout for Sanders, who allegedly created problems at the home of Nancy Gray, 1634 State St., where the man allegedly was yelling and screaming and refused to leave.

When police arrived, Sanders had departed, but returned a short time later and again left, reports said.

While responding to the second call, Sanders' truck was spotted and his arrest followed.

Nurses trained to deal with pregnant adolescents

"One fact is for sure, one out of 10 teenagers between the ages of 15 and 19 will get pregnant each year," said Marcia Custer, assistant professor in the School of Nursing at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville (SIUE).

"That certain fact has led the school to offer a course for elementary and secondary school nurses in the care and counseling of pregnant adolescents and their infants. It will be taught by Miss Custer, and by Barbara McDonnell and Cathy White, also of the SIUE nursing faculty.

"THE COURSE will be taught from June 18 to 29, classes will be held from 9 to 11 a.m. and 12 to 2 p.m. for the two weeks the course is in session.

"There is a need for continuing the education of school nurses," Miss Custer observed. "The opportunity is not always easily available. SIUE wants to help fulfill this need."

"Underlying the program is the declaration by Gov. James Thompson that teenage pregnancies constitute one of the biggest health problems in the state. As a result, a $15-million program called 'Parents Too Soon' was formed, with agencies working on all aspects of the problem, including prevention, family planning and proper hygiene care.

"SCHOOL NURSES are the most important people in the school to attend to the needs of pregnant teenagers, according to Miss Custer. Nurses know the physiological side of what's going on with these girls. We hope to teach nurses to be more effective with counseling and helping these girls.

"Part of the problem surrounding the role of the school nurse is that students don't as a general rule go to them with this problem, even though they are most informed and able to help them. One way of making students aware that the nurses can help is having these professionals discuss biological changes in the body and the reproductive system in the early grades. Then they know they can contact the nurse on this delicate problem."

Another factor that complicates the role of the school nurse is the insistence of many parents that their children should not be taught about sex in the schools, according to Miss Custer. There is a strong feeling that such matters should be taught in the home.

"This raises a problem," Miss Custer said. "Parents usually talk only about the moral, religious reasons why their offspring shouldn't have sex at such a young age. They talk about what's right and wrong. The nurse, on the other hand, could talk about the physiological aspects—how the body is changing."

THE COURSE for nurses will focus on the following: Epidemiology of the adolescent—it will provide statistics on who gets pregnant and what they are likely to do about it. It should be noted that when teenagers get pregnant, it is usually the taxpayer who ends up paying for the care of the child. Sometimes the baby has to go into intensive care for some period because the mother was too young to carry it. Often the young mother goes on state aid.

Change theory—a look at the method for changing and enhancing the role of the school nurse as a helper for teenagers who are pregnant. The nurse is taught to be a counselor, to show the alternatives for what the girl can do. This is referred to as value clarification.

PREVENTION—this emphasizes the critical role of having the nurse on the curriculum planning committee on matters of health education. Community resources—the nurse is informed about adoption agencies, family planning agencies, and how the girl can obtain prenatal care if she cannot afford it.

Physiological concerns—this looks at matters such as nutrition, hygiene, proper body care in the pregnancy situation and attendant psychological problems.

MISS CURTIS noted another practical reason for school nurses being interested in continuing education. In the past, school nurses were not on a comparable pay schedule with teachers. Most school systems work in such a way that with additional education, teachers can add increments to their salaries. Since the fall of 1983, school nurses have been paid this way, too, she said.

For further information on this course, interested persons may call 1-692-3956.

SIUE supports MBA course increase

Through Summer University, the School of Business at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville (SIUE), is offering a limited set of courses for the Master's in Business Administration degree on an experimental basis. These courses will be incorporated into the regular schedule of the 12-week 1984 summer session at SIUE.

The schedule provides for 20 sections during the day, according to Robert Schutzius, director of counseling for the School of Business.

"WE ARE doing this because demand is growing," Schutzius said. "Two areas in which we have expanded are statistics and marketing."

Schutzius attributed the growth to students whose undergraduate degrees have not been in business but who are now seeking out special programs or graduate degrees in the area.

"To meet this demand," Schutzius said, "we have increased our course offerings by approximately 10 percent. We are able to determine that these courses initially should have 15 students through pre-registration, with the probability that they will have an average of 20 students when the final registration figures are computed."

TRADITIONALLY, the school's graduate offerings during the daytime have been sparse. Daytime MBA courses were only offered during the academic year. However, academic year enrollments have indicated that a certain number of daytime summer offerings would be attractive, Schutzius said.

The daytime program continues to be far smaller than the graduate offerings at night. Previously budgetary constraints have precluded any experimenting with expansion of the daytime programs; however, with the support of Summer University, this is now possible, the director explained.

For further information on daytime summer MBA courses, interested persons may contact Robert Schutzius at 1-692-3840 or by writing to Box 86, the School of Business, SIUE, Edwardsville, Ill. 62026.

SIUE students get ASPA student award

The Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville (SIUE) student chapter of the American Society of Personnel Administration (ASPA) has been chosen for the third consecutive year to receive the National ASPA Student Chapter Merit Award.

Michael Ray Scott, a candidate for the MBA degree in human resource management at SIUE and president of the campus ASPA chapter, said the students sponsored many activities such as Career Day, a two-day job search seminar, speakers from the professional field at monthly meetings and tours of plants in the metropolitan area to mass points which led to the award.

SCOTT HAS BEEN named by the St. Louis professional chapter of ASPA, the Industrial Relations Society of Greater St. Louis, Inc., to the Outstanding Student of the Year.

Scott, formerly from Cahokia, now living in Edwardsville, said he and several of the students of SIUE ASPA will attend the national conference of ASPA in Chicago, June 25 to 29, where the Superior Merit Award will be presented to the chapter.

Eliminated by 3-1 defeat to Darien Dukes

T.C. Booters bow out of McGuire Cup playoffs

By CHARLIE SKAER
of the Press-Record
EDWARDSVILLE — The T.C. Booters of Granite City were eliminated from the McGuire Cup playoffs Saturday afternoon in a 3-1 loss to the Darien, Ill., Dukes.

The Dukes, who traveled four and a half hours in their drive from the Chicago suburb of Darien, used their physical strength and speed to dominate play from the start against the younger Granite City squad. They carried a 3-0 lead before Booter Fred Becker scored with six minutes remaining in the game to end the Dukes' shutout.

"We were much stronger than them," admitted Darien coach Mike Knutte. "We just kind of wore them down."

HOWEVER, THE COACH praised the performance of the Granite City squad.

"For their size, they were terrific," said Knutte. "They were as good a team as we played all year."

The Dukes opened the scoring late in the first half after Booter Brett Bjorkman was whistled for tripping a Darien player. Mason Croft then booted a free kick to the right of Booter goalie Rusty Ethridge to put the score at 1-0.

The T.C. Booters, who are sponsored by Tri-County Builders, had a golden opportunity to score minutes later when Steve Becker headed the ball to teammate Todd Adamitis. During the play, Becker collided with Darien player Ed Kessler, who stayed motionless on the ground while Adamitis drove in towards the goal.

BUT THE PLAY was stopped when Adamitis was whistled for being off-sides. The referee said Adamitis had crossed the line before Becker headed the ball. Kessler, meanwhile, exited the game with a minor injury to his head.

The Booters seemed irritated by the violation call.

"From where I was, I thought it (the call) was a mistake," said Booter coach Fred Becker. "But I'm not blaming them (the officials) for anything. Usually when you lose, you look for excuses."

"But we lost the game at midfield, which everybody could see. They outplayed us. That's something we can't take away from them."

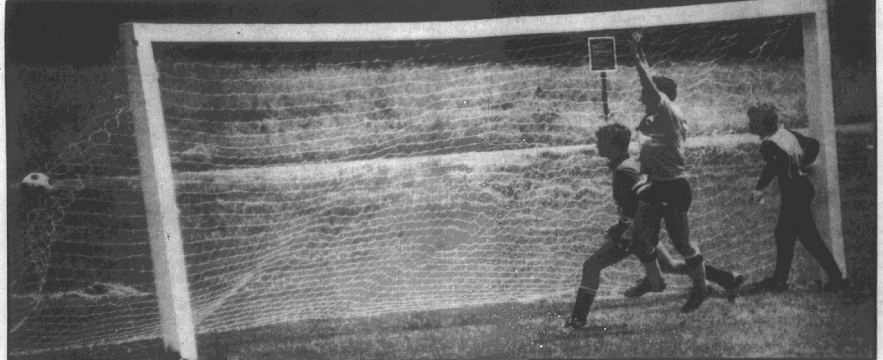

THE DUKES INCREASED their lead to 2-0 in the second half with a goal by Chris Kohls. A corner kick set up the Dukes' third goal from Rich Hertowski.

The Booters had two penalty kicks in the second half, although they missed scoring chances on both occasions. The first Darien violation was whistled inside the box — meaning a free kick for the Booters — but the referee said the altercation between the two opposing players had started outside the box. He therefore awarded a penalty kick instead of a free kick.

The Booters also came close to another goal with a shot in the second half that hit the top of the goal. But the ball bounced off the goal and went back into play.

BECKER SAID the team will "start it all over" in a Fourth of July tournament to be held in April.

"We've already started by making some changes in the midfield," said Becker. "We've had our problems there in the last two games and we want to correct them."

Assistant coach Jerry Broadwater also saw need for improvement.

"They beat us to the ball the whole game," said Broadwater. "It looked like they wanted it (the win) and we didn't. The boys went down and it showed."

DARIEN COACH KNUTTE will be taking his squad to the quarter-finals in Chicago June 16-18. He said he hopes to do better than last year, when the Dukes were eliminated in quarter-final play. He also had some encouraging words for the Granite City players, most of whom are a year or two younger than the maximum age in the 16-and-under category. "When I saw their size, I thought it would be an easier match," he said. "But they have an excellent team. They'll be tough in another year or two."

Come on guys! Coakley cheers Granite to first win

By CHARLIE SKAER
of the Press-Record
FAIRVIEW HEIGHTS — American Legion coach Dave Coakley had seen enough of his apparently-dead Granite City team Sunday afternoon. With his squad down 5-0 in the third inning, Coakley began his own pep rally.

"Come on guys, let's here some talk out there," he yelled. "We can score five runs in one inning. We're still in this ballgame."

It didn't go exactly as planned, but the Granite City team scored one run in the fifth, four runs in the sixth and another four in the seventh to earn a 9-7 come-from-behind victory over Fairview Heights.

"THEY WERE ASLEEP" or something in the beginning," said Coakley after the game, explaining the need for his cheering in the third inning. "I had to get them livened up."

Sunday's victory was the season's first for the Granite City squad. The team appeared headed for victories in two prior games, but lost generous leads in a close 7-6 defeat to Edwardsville on Friday and an 8-6 loss against Collinsville on Thursday.

On Sunday, Granite City graciously accepted the help of costly errors by Fairview Heights fielders in both the sixth and seventh innings.

"WE'LL TAKE THEM," said Coakley about the errors. "That's what has been happening to us lately, losing it at the end. It was our turn for a change to take one."

The errors in the top of the sixth came with Fairview Heights on top, 5-1. Keith Coakley led off with a walk and scored on a double by Gerald Booker. Shane Cole then hit a pop fly to Fairview Heights second baseman John Bovinette, who misjudged the ball for the inning's first error. Bovinette was struck on the forehead by the high fly, but stayed in the game after regaining his senses during a time out.

PINCH HITTER Art Williams grounded to third for what appeared to be the inning's first out, but first baseman Jim Sinovic dropped the throw from third baseman Denny Callahan for the inning's second error. Booker went home on the play, making the score 5-3.

Pat Cathey then tied the game when he drilled a 1-9 pitch to center field for a double, driving home Cole and Williams. Fairview Heights coach Kyle Fink decided to lift starting pitcher Mike Cook, sending in reliever George St. Clair.

St. Clair started out strong, forcing a ground out and recording a strike out. But he then gave up two walks to load the bases for Granite City hitter Coakley, son of the Granite City coach.

ON A FULL COUNT, Coakley sent a long fly ball to right. But Fairview Heights outfielder John Rapp charged hard at the ball, diving after it for a spectacular snag to end the inning.

"That was some catch," said the elder Coakley, who is in his first year as coach of the American Legion senior league team. "If that had gone through, we would have gotten at least two and maybe even three runs. You know it would have gone to the fence."

But the Granite City team got some help in the seventh with two more fielding errors from Fairview Heights.

DEADLOCKED AT 5-5 with one man out and Granite City's Cole on first, Fairview Heights manager Fink sent in fast-ball hurler Carl Sudja to try and end the Granite City threat.

A near double play almost did just that. Granite City catcher Williams grounded back to Sudja, who threw to second to force out Cole. But Williams outstayed the relay throw to first, giving Granite City another chance to break the 5-5 tie.

Cathey came to bat and hit a short chopper to the Fairview Heights second baseman. But the ball took a bad bounce and got by the infielder, allowing Williams to advance to third.

RANDY BURGESS THEN hit an infield grounder for what appeared to be the third out, but Fairview Heights first baseman Sinovic dropped the throw and Williams reached home for the go-ahead run.

"When he dropped the throw at first, that opened the gates," said Fairview Heights coach Fink. "We just got as tight as a drum. We lost our composure."

The nervousness was evident in the next play, as shortstop Ron Fehrer bobbled a grounder off the bat of Sam Tate. Instead of getting an easy force out at second, Fehrer fumbled with the ball as Cathey crossed the plate to put the score at 7-5. Granite City's Terry Rujawitz followed with a triple to right that drove in two and put the score at 9-5.

Sudja then ended the inning when Granite City starting pitcher Danny Whitsell was called out on strikes.

THE FAIRVIEW HEIGHTS team made a comeback of their own in the seventh inning. Whitsell was taken out of the game after walking leadoff batter Denny Callahan.

Reliever Alan Zantgraf walked the next batter, but forced shortstop Fehrer to hit a grounder to third baseman Randy Burgess. When Fehrer was called out on a close play at first, the Fairview Heights players started yelling with disgust and coach Fink charged the field to argue with the umpire.

The argument was to no avail. But the call eventually irritated Fairview Heights reliever Sudja, who knocked a double to center that narrowed the score to 9-7.

The Fairview Heights players again expressed their anger when batter Doug Etzel was called out on strikes. Jim Sinovic ended the game when he fouled out to first baseman Coakley.

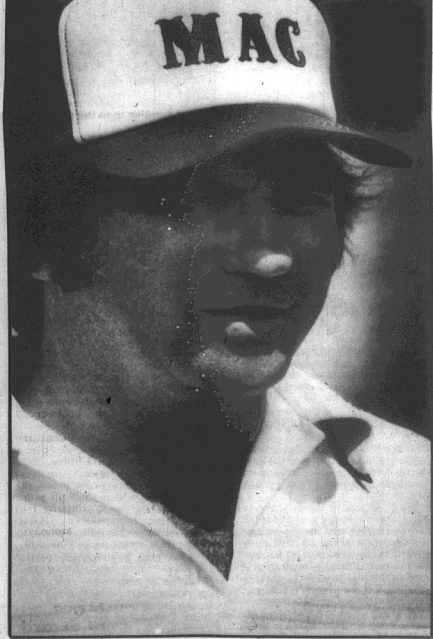

"WE HURT OURSELVES," said Fink after the game, commenting about the game's constant battle with the officiating. "The umpires didn't lose it for us, we did. We just made the umpire's job difficult because we didn't make the plays."

Meanwhile, for Coakley, the win was long overdue.

"Boy, this was a rough one," he said. "But at least we hung in there this time."

Things haven't been as good for Coakley in recent games. The

Sweeps double-header in Inter-City League

McDonald's starts hot with six straight wins

By PAULA WISE
of the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — In an Inter-City League double-header Sunday, McDonald's utilized their defensive abilities to turn five double plays and sweep the Maryville Red Sox, 3-0 and 8-7. The wins put McDonald's at 6-0 for the season.

Kevin Sykes and Jeff Parker played key roles in three double plays to shut down any scoring threats by the Red Sox.

The first twin killing came in the second inning. With one man out, Randy Robbins and Jack Graham both singled for the Red Sox. Mike Thomas then hit a ball up the middle that Sykes was able to glove. Sykes tagged the base and threw to first in time to get Thomas.

IN THE FIFTH INNING, McDonald's was again saved by a double play. With two on and one out, pitcher

Steve Doty intentionally walked pinch hitter Ray Perry. Doty then induced Lemuel Gilmore to hit into an inning ending 1-4-3 double play.

With the score 3-0, all hopes of a Red Sox comeback were put to rest in the top of the seventh with a third McDonald's double play. After a leadoff single by Robbins, Graham hit the ball back to Doty. The pitcher fired to Parker, who threw on to first to kill the inning for the Red Sox.

"WE PLAYED SOME good ball today," said McDonald's coach Ray Harris. "We saw a little more competition than we have been seeing, so those three double plays really helped out."

Pitching also played a key role in the win for McDonald's. Keith Burton got his third win of the season in the first game, giving up just three hits during five innings. Doty came on for the final two innings and allowed only one hit.

"Our pitchers are going to be pretty good," said Harris. "As long as their arms stay in shape, we'll be O.K."

Burton pitched a full game last week and his arm got a little sore today. We thought it might be a good idea to put in somebody fresh."

IN THE SECOND GAME, left-hander Mike Zukas got his second win of the season with a complete game for McDonald's. Although Zukas gave up seven runs, only five of the runs were earned as errors plagued the McDonald's fielders.

In the second inning, an error by the right fielder allowed Tim Clawson to score the Red Sox first run of the game.

The Red Sox tied the game at 5-5 in the top of the third, again taking advantage of two McDonald's errors.

But McDonald's offense began to pick up the slack. With two out in the bottom of the fourth, John Vrenick and Parker put together back-to-back home runs to right center field to put McDonald's back on top 7-5.

HOWEVER, THE RED SOX refused to be outdone. A home run by Steve Blumner in the fifth and a towering home run from Clawson in the sixth tied the score at seven.

The fifth and probably best double play of the day came in the sixth and kept the Red Sox from taking the lead. John Harvey was at first with a single when in the fifth and a towering home run from Clawson in the sixth tied the score at seven.

Third baseman Kevin Patterson bared the ball and threw to first just in time to get Rainwater sent a slow rolling bunt down the third base line.

First baseman Steve Ficker then returned the throw to Zukas, who was covering third base, to catch Harvey as he was trying to advance.

McDONALD'S ADDED the winning run in the bottom of the sixth without the benefit of a hit.

Leadoff batter Kevin Sykes got the inning started as he reached first after being hit by a pitch. Sykes stole second to put the winning run in scoring position. A sacrifice by Ken Wilson sent Sykes to third. Parker then hit a ball that shortstop Blumner couldn't handle to score Sykes.

"We played two good games today," said Harris after his team's sweep. "We had a couple of errors, but we're winning so I can't say anything."

"We're starting to hit the ball too with those home runs today. After all, as the commercial says, nobody can do it like McDonald's can."

Lose two, win one against Arkansas team

Weekend action drops Spanky's record to 7-4

By AL BARNES
for the Press-Record

The 7-Up-Spanky's baseball team, now 7-4 after winning one and losing two in weekend action, are desperately beating the bushes trying to get, borrow or steal pitchers. Any kind of hurlers.

Dropping both ends of a double-header Saturday to Ft. Smith, Ark., at Edwardsville's Hoppe Park by scores of 8-2 and 6-3, the 7-Up-Spanky's team bounced back Sunday afternoon to trounce the Arkansas team, 5-0, at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

TWIST, SPANKY'S WILL meet a brand new foe in the recently-organized Sauget squad — a team with former Spanky's stars Jim Greenwald and Bobby Hughes. The nine-inning game is slated for Granite City High's Varsity Field at 7:30 p.m.

Sauget will return for another nine-inning game Tuesday and, after a layoff Wednesday, Spanky's will return to Hoppe Park Thursday for a showdown with Trenton at 7:30 p.m.

At this point, it'll really get tough for Spanky's; they'll be traveling to Clarinda, Iowa, for a four-day tournament starting Friday and continuing until Monday.

IN SATURDAY'S TWO games, the home-run hitter nearly demolished Spanky's.

In the leadoff game, the Ft. Smith Red Sox took a 5-0 lead in the opening inning when their home-run hitter, shortstop Gary Geiger, blasted his fifth four-bagger of the young season. Designated hitter Luke Ginn slammed a solo homer to lead off the third inning.

In the 8-2 loss, Spanky's scored their pair of runs in a short rally in the fifth.

In Saturday's second game, it was more of the same with Geiger again pulling off his first-inning theatrics, this time hitting a three-run homer. The visitors went on to win, 6-3. Spanky's starter Gary Gergens pitched well enough most of the game to win, but two of the five hits he allowed were homers.

THE HITTING AND base running of outfielder J.V. Victorian was about the only cheerful note Spanky's enjoyed in Saturday's two games. His two-for-three performance in Sunday's game also was a sparkling exhibition, along with Roger Hill's two-for-four performance to drive in three runs.

Tom Greco continued to battle out of a slight slump when he hit a pair of singles in four trips.

But the big news in Sunday's game was the sensational mound job turned in by newcomer Keith Reinhart. In his 5-0 shutout victory, Reinhart wasn't overpowering. Instead of using a blazing fastball, he pitched smartly by keeping the hard-hitting Arkansas players off balance, never allowing them to dig in. He ended up fanning eight and walking six.

REINHART, WHO PLAYED for River-view High in St. Louis and for one year at Florissant Spring, racked up a 6-1 season this spring at Western Kentucky University.

His finest moment in Sunday's game came in the top of the eighth. With two outs and a man on third, Reinhart fanned the Red Sox's best batter, Ron Coker, on three straight pitches.

In the ninth, appearing to tire a bit, Reinhart walked pinch-hitter Skip Ray. But the next man up, leadoff hitter Albert Reyes, hit into a snappy double play that went from Roger Hill to Doug Peters and on to first. Reinhart confirmed the victory by getting Lane Decker to fly out, Victorian in center.

Smith wins feature event at Tri-City races Friday

By JOE SENTER
for the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — Bo Smith of St. Charles, Mo., took the modified feature event Friday night at the Tri-City Speedway in Granite City.

Jake Seets of Brighton claimed the top prize in the sportsman's class cars and Rich Steyh of Cedar Hill, Mo., won the street stock feature. Smith, driving a 1981 Plymouth Arrow, had little competition from the rest of the field on the 1/2-mile dirt track. Last week's feature winner, Mike Null of Hazelwood, crossed the line in second and Tim Utley of St. Louis finished third.

Utley won the heat race, with Bo Smith coming in second. Utley also beat out Mary Pruett to take first place in the trophy dash.

JAKE SEETS DROVE a Ford Falcon for his win in the sportsman's feature, beating out Steve Quarles, mouse in second and Bert Griffin in third. But Quarles claimed first place in the trophy dash and heat race, defeating Tom Seets in both events.

Rich Steyh won the street stock feature, with John Wolfmeier finishing second and Dave Hearty coming in third.

SPECIAL EFFORT. Mark Widel of Granite City, top, maneuvers into position over Ballwin resident Tom Coll in the fifth Annual Granite City Wrestling Tournament held Saturday at Granite City Center. About 80 participants took part in the tournament, which was sanctioned by the U.S.A. Wrestling Federation. Widel was one of the tourney's special participants, for he continues to wrestle despite having his left arm amputated after a 1978 machinery accident in the Navy. "I hope that my wrestling is an inspiration to others," said Widel, who lost to Coll but won an earlier match. "It's all a matter of attitude." Widel placed third in the state in 1977 in the U.S.A. Wrestling Federation's 177-pound freestyle competition.

DeMars resigns as SIUE tennis coach

Kent DeMars, the man who built the successful Division II tennis program at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, has resigned to accept the head tennis coaching position at the University of South Carolina.

DeMars, who came to SIUE in 1974, finished with a 218-71 dual meet record — including an 80-5 home record. He helped the Cougars reach national prominence by first collecting the runner-up position in the Division II championship in 1978 and then in 1978 starting a string of seven national championships.

The past season, SIUE finished with a 24-3 record. Their seventh straight championship set a NCAA record for most tennis team championships. Only the University of Southern California track and field team has more consecutive team championships, with eight.

DeMars also produced seven individual champions. In 1978 and 1982, he was voted the national coach of the year by the NCAA.

DeMars, a graduate of Assumption High School in East St. Louis, served as SIUE assistant athletic director since 1978. His resignation will be effective after the summer quarter.

Leonard takes fifth place at all-star meet

George Leonard of Madison took fifth place in the 300-meter low hurdles at the Senior All-Star Track Meet held June 2 at the University of Illinois in Champaign.

The state's top 16 seniors in all track events were invited to the meet. Leonard, competing against runners from both Class A and AA schools, finished in 38.7 seconds.

Rod McMullen of Edwardsville took first place in the low hurdles with a 37.3 time.

Jim Robertson of Granite City also ran in the all-star meet, competing in the 3200-meter run. Robertson did not place in the meet.

Robertson, who will be attending Illinois State University at Normal, was invited to the meet after finishing ninth in the 3200-meter run at this spring's Class AA State Track Meet. He finished at the state finals with a 9:15.23 time.

Now we're doing our part, in recognition of a great American cause, by joining the effort to save the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island. After almost 100 years, the Statue of Liberty is in a grave state of disrepair. And so is Ellis Island, the gateway to a new life for the forefathers of nearly half of all living Americans. Without immediate and extensive repairs, we may lose these treasured symbols of hope and freedom forever. As a Founding Sponsor of the Statue of Liberty/Ellis Island Foundation, Granite Chrysler-Plymouth has made its contribution to the restoration of these historic landmarks. Won't you join us in this truly patriotic effort? Send your tax deductible contribution to: Statue of Liberty Headquarters, 2751 E. Jefferson, Detroit, MI 48207.

News notes

No testimony was permitted at an Illinois Senate hearing Thursday on a bill to require an auto emission in the Chicago area and Madison-St. Clair counties. Gov. James R. Thompson said to confer today with U.S. Environmental Director William Ruckelshaus and a meeting is planned Thursday in Chicago with assembly leaders. A Thompson aide said that if legislators fail to adopt the proposal this month, the governor will call them into special session.

The 905 liquor stores in Granite City, Alton, Fairview Heights and Belleville are being closed.

+++

The full Illinois Senate will take up a bill requiring drivers and their front-seat passengers to buckle seatbelts while traveling on Illinois roads or face a $10 fine.

+++

A Senate-passed bill will be considered by the Illinois House to move Calhoun, Jersey, Greend and Macoupin counties from the Fourth Appellate Judicial District to join Madison County in the Fifth District.

+++

Under legislation adopted by Illinois House members last week, the county board chairmen of Madison, St. Clair and Monroe counties would alternate nominating Illinois members of the Bi-State Development Agency board.

Madison County inmates are not properly classified; sentenced prisoners are housed with those not yet sentenced, and misdeemeanor and felony suspects also are placed together, according to a state inspector, who urged different groupings and more dayroom space. Jack "Yellow" Schuler, said full compliance with the recommendations would be impractical but that the jail is better than most.

Moad expands on council statement

Fifth Ward Alderman Woodrow Moad responded Thursday to allegations by Mayor Paul Schuler at the last city council meeting that Moad had lied concerning city council support for fixing the city's sewer breaks.

During the discussion surrounding the hiring of a draftsman for the engineering department, Moad said he was trying to illustrate to Mayor Paul Schuler that aldermen have backed up all of Schuler's plans to fix the sewer breaks. In particular, Moad mentioned the council paying for technical specifications done on the sewer breaks.

Schuler stated at the city council meeting that this was a lie. According to City Comptroller Joe Miklovic, however, there is a record of a $7,300 payment from the city to Keitz & Jens, Inc., an engineering firm that did technical specifications on the sewer breaks last November.

Moad said he wished to clarify the matter since he did not want any of his constituents to think he actually had lied.

"I want them to know that I was correct and that I was trying to make a point with the mayor. The point is that the aldermen have always voted in the past to give him the money he needs to fix the city's sewer breaks."

Wolf supports abolishing legislative commissions

State Representative Sam Wolf (D-Granite City) announced today that he supports a proposal aimed at abolishing most legislative commissions.

"Members of a Special Study Committee are to be commended for a recent study conducted regarding these commissions," Wolf said. "While in some instances, the case was overstated against these commissions, many of the recommendations included in the report should be acted upon immediately," he said. "The Special Study Committee which was formed to review the commission issue has recommended elimination of all so-called 'study commissions'."

"For those of us who have continued to review these provisions for all legislation which is considered temporary in nature, this finding is indeed welcome," Wolf said.

Plan Commission reviews Hit-N-Run Store petition

At Thursday's meeting of the Granite City Plan Commission, members reviewed three rezoning petitions, including a change that would allow David Roth to construct a Hit-N-Run Store at the corner of 28th Street and Madison Avenue.

Roth is requesting that the board rezone the land from R-3 (single family residential) to C-4 (central business commercial) so that it may be used as a car lot.

A FINAL petition of that of John Hadley, owner of J & J Liquor Store, 3112 Maryville Road, who is requesting that a property at 28th St. be rezoned to include gas pumps there.

Recommendations from the commission staff go before the Granite City Council for final passage.

Kinder reapplies for public defender spot as term ends

Chief Circuit Judge A. A. Mateos said Friday that he will not ask the Third Judicial Circuit judges to accept applications for the office of public defender should not be taken as a criticism of the current public defender.

"This is absolutely not a 'no confidence vote' for William Kinder," said Mateos. "The judges decided to take applications just as they did the year before. Persons should not view this action as a vote for Kinder but as an opening up of the applications. Kinder applied Thursday to be reappointed."

Kinder said he was not taken as an indication that Kinder is not doing a good job. We're just giving other people a chance to apply for the position.

In Madison County, the public defender is appointed at one-year intervals. Kinder's current term will expire on June 30. The public defender earns a salary of $20,000.

Kinder said Friday that he was not surprised with the judges' decision to seek applications. "I think this decision was anything more than routine," he said.

He said the judges have been opening up the position for application ever since he went into office in December of 1979. Judges used to make the appointments later in the year. The public defender's office's budget is set in December, so it was decided to make the appointment annually in June "so somebody new would get the position with the former public defender's budget," Kinder noted.

Kinder said he had reapplied for the position. "I sent my letter in yesterday," he said Friday.

Kinder, 45, of Granite City, is a local attorney. He has practiced law in Madison and Granite City since 1969.

He has served as the chief assistant in the Madison County state's attorney's office for former state's attorney Leon Scroggins.

Kinder was selected by the circuit judges of the Third Judicial Circuit as public defender in 1979, to fill the unexpired term of former public defender Paul Reilly.
